Pittsburgh:

Art & Architecture in the Steel City

September 24–28, 2024

Join the National Trust on this dazzling exploration of Pittsburgh's exceptional art and architecture. Pittsburgh unquestionably was the steel capital of the world for most of the 20th century. The city enjoyed great prosperity, which was reflected in its urban fabric. The steel industry and its tycoons deeply influenced the city's heritage, leaving a legacy of philanthropy, magnificent art, and architecturally significant buildings dating from the late 1800s and early 1900s. Even as the American steel industry faded, Pittsburgh continued to celebrate and preserve its history, while reinventing itself as a young and vibrant city awash in notable new architecture and collections of outstanding art. Only a short distance away is one of the most celebrated masterpieces of American architecture: Frank Lloyd Wright's iconic Fallingwater.

DAVID J. VATER, RA

David Vater is a Pittsburgh native and his ancestors have lived in the region since the 1830s. He is president of his own architectural firm and has served on the Board of Directors of the AIA Pittsburgh's Foundation for Architecture, the Friends of Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh, the Pittsburgh History & Landmarks Foundation, and the Society for the Preservation of the Duquesne Heights Incline. In 1998 he authored the nomination that put Chatham Village Historic District on the National Register of Historic Places and assisted with the additional research that made it a National Historic Landmark in 2005. He has been a member of the National Trust since 1978 and served on the National Trust 2006 (Pittsburgh) Convention Committee.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 24

Steel City Architecture

Upon arrival in Pittsburgh, transfer independently to the elegant Omni William Penn Hotel, a property of the National Trust's Historic Hotels of America program, with a perfect location in Pittsburgh's Central Downtown Historic District. Set out on a late-afternoon walking tour with Study Leader David Vater, an architect and a Pittsburgh native active in local preservation efforts. Explore the architectural highlights of historic Grant Street and the area surrounding your hotel. Stop at Henry Hobson Richardson's Allegheny County Courthouse, one of the nation's most grandiose neo-Romanesque structures; the Frick Building, where the lobby features John LaFarge's masterful stained glass work "Fortune and Her Wheel"; the Pittsburgh City-County Building, featuring intricate tile work by Rafael Guastavino; the Union Trust Building, with its dramatic stained glass dome skylight; and several other architecturally important sites. Tonight, get to know fellow travelers over a delicious welcome dinner at a historic private social club. (D)

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 25

Gothic Revival & Cultural Gems

Begin the day with a stroll through the University of Pittsburgh's urban campus and visit the graceful Heinz Chapel and the soaring Cathedral of Learning, both grand examples of the Gothic Revival architectural style with which Pittsburgh is strongly associated. Tour the Cathedral of Learning's distinctive Nationality Rooms, each designed to represent an 18th-century classroom in a different country in honor of the diverse immigrant communities that settled in Pittsburgh. Following lunch, take a highlight tour of the Carnegie Museums of Art and Natural History, housed in a historic building featuring lavish architectural spaces. See the Hall of Architecture, the Grand Staircase with its series of murals by John White Alexander, the marble-columned foyer of the Music Hall, and select highlights from the fine arts collection. (B, L)

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 26

Industrial Heritage & the Gilded Age

Tour the Carrie Blast Furnaces, a remnant of the legendary U.S. Steel Homestead Steel Works. Built in 1884 along the Monongahela River, the Carrie Blast Furnaces are a vestige of Pittsburgh's 20th-century domination of the steel industry and has been designated as a National Historic Landmark. Continue to The Frick Pittsburgh, a complex of museums and historical buildings centered around Clayton, the former home of industrialist and art collector Henry Clay Frick. Take a docent-led tour of Clayton, a wonderfully preserved example of Gilded Age architecture and one of the few intact homes from Pittsburgh's lost "Millionaire's Row." Enjoy time to wander through the lush gardens and explore the nearby Frick Art Museum or the Car and Carriage Museum. Following lunch at another historic property along Millionaire's Row, be welcomed into one of the Pittsburgh area's most gracious private historic homes, opened exclusively for the National Trust. The owners will discuss the house's history and the extensive renovations they have made to return it to its original grandeur. En route back to the hotel, stop for a picturesque ride on the Duquesne Incline, which began operations in 1877. Disembark atop Mount Washington for stunning panoramic views of Pittsburgh's dramatic skyline and the convergence of the three rivers below. (B, L)

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 27

Kentuck Knob & Fallingwater

Take a day trip into the beautiful Laurel Highlands of western Pennsylvania to explore two brilliant creations of Frank Lloyd Wright. Begin at Kentuck Knob, a Usonian home designed by Wright in 1953 built using native sandstone and red cypress to blend harmoniously into the surrounding hills. Tour the house and then explore the grounds, dotted with sculptures by Andy Goldsworthy, Anthony Caro, Claes Oldenburg, and Wendy Taylor, among others. Continue to Wright's breathtaking Fallingwater, an icon of 20th-century architecture and a UNESCO World Heritage Site, featuring a bold system of cantilevered terraces built directly over a cascading waterfall. Take a docent-led tour of this timeless monument to organic architecture and hear the stories behind this massive architectural achievement. Wright also custom-designed all of the house's furniture, which is still intact. Return to Pittsburgh and reconvene in the evening for a festive farewell dinner at an award-winning local restaurant. (B, D)

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 28

Departures

Transfer independently to the airport for return flights home. (B)

Accommodations at the OMNI WILLIAM PENN HOTEL

Stay four nights at Pittsburgh's elegant Omni William Penn Hotel. Designed in a Renaissance Revival style, the hotel opened in 1916 and was the last building venture of industrialist Henry Clay Frick. After a multi-million-dollar renovation, the hotel offers Old World charm with modern touches, award-winning dining options, and traditional afternoon tea service.
