Bermuda

December 4–9, 2024

Since it was established in 1969, the Bermuda National Trust has acquired more than 60 historic properties and open-space areas in Bermuda, and is a formidable force in the preservation of this fragile island, characterized by graceful Georgian houses of whitewashed coral limestone, manicured gardens, and sparkling turquoise waters. In 1612, settlers from Britain entered St. George's Harbor resulting in a unique blend of British formality and island nonchalance. Discover Bermuda in all its cultural glory with VIP tours of historic monuments, special openings of grand private homes, and exclusive invitations into breathtaking hidden gardens. Taking place during the Bermuda National Trust's festive "Christmas Walkabout," uncover Bermuda at its best, while enjoying many of the island's most interesting people and finest restaurants.

Enjoy special luncheons hosted by local Bermudians in their exquisite private homes.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 5

Carter House & St. George

Set out for historic St. George, Bermuda's capital until 1815 and arguably the oldest continuously inhabited English town in the New World. Enjoy a walking tour along St. George's narrow streets to see King's Square; the Town Hall; and St. Peter's Church, the oldest Anglican church in continuous use in the western hemisphere. At the 18th-century Tucker House, view Bermudian furniture, portraits, hand-sewn quilts, and silver. Next, drive to a spectacular private home and enjoy lunch with the owners. Proceed to Carter House, one of the oldest buildings on St. David's Island. An example of early Bermudian vernacular architecture, it was built circa 1640 of stone rather than wood by the descendants of one of two crew members of the shipwrecked Sea Venture who remained in Bermuda when other survivors left for Virginia in 1610. Dinner is included at the hotel. (B,L,D)

Walkabout*

Bermuda, housed within a large fortress and dedicated to Bermuda's maritime history. During a special visit to the Commissioner's House, learn about the largest restoration project ever undertaken in Bermuda. Following free time for lunch and shopping, return to your hotel for a break. Later, set out on a private cocktail cruise to St. George and take in the festive celebrations of the Bermuda National Trust's Christmas Walkabout. Dinner is included at the hotel. (B,D)

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 7

Estates & Antiques

Drive to Waterville, one of the oldest and most elegant houses on Bermuda, and the Bermuda National Trust's current headquarters. The waterfront grounds include the Bermuda Rose Society's showcase garden of old roses. Continue to one of the most splendid private historic estates in Bermuda. At the Bermuda Natural History Museum, learn about the island's unique geological history and diversity of habitats and see the museum's 140,000-gallon North Rock Exhibit that showcases live corals and 200 species of fish, including large predatory fish. Continue to Hamilton, Bermuda's capital, and enjoy free time to have lunch and explore the city. Enjoy dinner together at the hotel. (B,D) world-class collection including works by Henry Moore, Georgia O'Keeffe, and Winslow Homer. Then visit Verdmont, a unique example of early Georgian architecture built around 1710, which has remained virtually unchanged for 300 years and houses a collection of Bermuda-made cedar furniture, portraits, and English and Chinese porcelain. Continue to another private home with magnificent gardens and be treated to lunch hosted by the owner, a sixth-generation Bermudian.

Art & Ancestry
