A French Pique-Nique

Nineteenth-century Parisians are credited with romanticizing the idea of the French pique-nique, or picnic, loosely consisting of a bread, cheeses, charcuterie, wine, and a tablecloth. What are the essentials for creating an authentic French picnic? First, choose an ideal time when the weather is mild, the sun is shining, and the breeze is redolent with the scent of fragrant flowers. Next, find a bucolic setting with space for spreading out on the grass, preferably under a shaded tree, near a lake with row boats, or in a park with magnificent gardens. Next, decide who will share in your pique-nique. Perhaps that special someone for a romantic tête-à-tête, or a group of family or friends whose company you enjoy. Finally, shop like a European at small specialty markets and pack your picnic basket. Fill it with baguettes and croissants; aged cheeses and cured meats; jams, mustards, olives, tapenades, and dips; fresh seasonal fruit; sweets such as fine chocolate, macarons, or other pastries; and plenty of chilled wine. Finally, spread your brightly colored linen tablecloth, reveal your feast, and enjoy the art of a lazy pique-nique along with stimulating conversation.

IMMERSIVE PROVENCE

The legendary 15th-century Hôtel-Dieu

The elements of a quintessential Provençal experience—with wine, cuisine, art, and architecture—come together on an unforgettable trip to southeastern France during the autumn harvest season. Vineyards, hilltop villages, and lavender fields form the mesmerizing backdrop for a living canvas, where a quaint street-side café in Arles once served as Van Gogh's muse, a 16th-century castle has evolved into a renowned Beaujolais wine estate, and fresh, seasonal local ingredients result in robust Provençal culinary delights. Experience southeast France's breathtaking landscapes and transcendent light that has inspired artists over the centuries.

Taste your way through the wine regions of Burgundy, Beaujolais, Châteauneuf-du-Pape, and the Rhône Valley. Gaze at Rogier Van der Weyden's altarpiece painting, The Last Judgment. And stand in awe before Romanesque, Gothic, Roman, and medieval architecture in this magical place called Provence.
